

The Public Historian

A Journal of Public History

Volume 28

Fall 2006

Number 4

Editor's Corner

- In Dogged Pursuit of Public History
Randolph Bergstrom 5

National Council on Public History Presidential Address

- The Blind Man and His Dog: The Public and Its Historians
Robert Weible 9

Issues in Historical Tourism

- Narrating the Urban Waterfront: The Role of Public History
in Community Revitalization
Andrew Hurley 19

- Mapping the Boosterist Imaginary: Colonial Williamsburg,
Historical Tourism, and the Construction of Managerial
Memory
James S. Miller 51

Roundtable

- Presidential Libraries and Museums: Opportunities for Genuine Reform
R. Bruce Craig 75

- Is There "Noncontroversial" History at Presidential Libraries?
Benjamin Hufbauer 85

- Congress Needs to Fund Archival Functions Appropriately.
Period.
Lynn Scott Cochrane 87

Book Reviews

- Preserving Western History* by Andrew Gulliford.
Reviewed by Patrick Ettinger 89

- Three Mile Island: A Nuclear Crisis in Historical Perspective* by J. Samuel Walker.
Reviewed by Martin V. Melosi 91

- Memory, History, Nation: Contested Pasts* edited by Katharine
Hodgkin and Susannah Radstone
Reviewed by Eric Gable 93

Commemorating War: The Politics of Memory edited by Timothy G. Ashplant, Graham Dawson, and Michael Roper. Reviewed by G. Kurt Piehler	95
Spanning Washington: Historic Highway Bridges of the Evergreen State by Craig E. Holstine and Richard Hobbs. Reviewed by Robert C. Pavlik	97
Moving Washington Timeline: The First Century of the Wash- ington State Department of Transportation, 1905–2005 by Walt Crowley and Kit Oldham. Reviewed by Carlos A. Schwantes	98
Native American Placenames of the United States by William Bright. Reviewed by Terri Castaneda	100
The San Diego World's Fairs and Southwestern Memory, 1880–1940 by Matthew F. Bokovoy. Nancy J. Parezo	102
A Western Legacy: The National Cowboy & Western Heritage Museum by Steven L. Grafe. Reviewed by Michael Duchemin	104
The Reconstructed Past: Reconstructions in the Public Interpreta- tion of Archaeology and History edited by John H. Jameson, Jr. Reviewed by Jay M. Price	106
Beyond Memory: The Crimean Tatars' Deportation and Return by Greta Lyn Uehling. Brian Williams	108
Memory, Oblivion, and Jewish Culture in Latin America edited by Marjorie Agosin. Reviewed by Adriana M. Brodsky	110

Museum and Exhibit Reviews

Slavery in New York . American History Workshop, curator; James O. Horton, chief historian. Reviewed by Erika Gottfried	113
National Steinbeck Center Museum. Leti M. Bocanegra, exhibits and technology manager; Margie Harrison-Smith, curator of education and public programs. Reviewed by Victor W. Geraci	117